THE TEMPLE OF SPEED

MONZA IS UNIQUE

The Autodromo Nazionale Monza is the second oldest racetrack in the world still in use today after Indianapolis. Built in 1922 in just 110 days, the Circuit has undergone several structural changes during its century-long history, up to the current 5,793 km of road track. In addition to this circuit, on which almost all of the year's races are held, there are the Junior track and "Old Banking". The Monza Circuit is also one of the long-lasting in the F1 calendar as well as the fastest in the championship: for this reason, it is also known as "The Temple of Speed". Finally, the Autodromo Nazionale Monza can accommodate in total - including the lawn - more than 130 thousand people.
